

LeadingAge DC and Maryland

LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

About

The LeadingAge DC and Maryland Leadership Academy is a year-long leadership program designed to enhance the leadership skills of nonprofit aging services leaders in the DC and Maryland region. During the year, Fellows are guided through graduate level curriculum which examines the traits of successful leaders, develops leadership competencies, and expands knowledge in the field of aging services, while establishing strong bonds with peers from other LeadingAge members. The DC/Maryland Academy is modeled after the highly successful LeadingAge national Leadership Academy.

Learning Schedule

Participants will engage in five face-to-face learning experiences that include visits to member communities, in-depth conversations with aging services leaders and guided exploration of leadership styles through exercises and readings. Each session will be 1 – 2 days.

The sessions for the 2015-2016 LeadingAge DC and Maryland Leadership Academy are as follows:

- November, 2015
- January, 2016
- March, 2016 (LeadingAge PEAK, DC)
- April, 2016 (LeadingAge Maryland Annual Meeting, Ellicott City, Maryland)
- July, 2016

Who Should Apply?

People employed by a LeadingAge DC or Maryland not-for-profit member, irrespective of clinical or managerial experience or discipline. Leadership potential within one's organization is far more important than specific job title. The Academy's focus is on developing aging services leaders. More than one employee from an organization may apply, but only one person from an organization will be

All applications will be reviewed and we will assemble a class of up to twelve Fellows, diverse in life experiences, leadership roles, geography, type of organization, and other characteristics.
